

International Society of Doctors
for the Environment

Presents

The Water We're Made Of:

Global Health Impacts of Water Scarcity, Flooding and Water-Borne Illness on a Warming Planet

Tuesday March 21st, 2023, from 6-8 pm EST

Registration: <https://albany.zoom.us/meeting/register/tJYqf-mhrjloGdJTJn8axglySeFiUbG6vdEX>

A UN Water Conference Expert Panel Featuring:

Upmanu Lall, PhD
Director,
Columbia Water Center

Leads research for:
Global Water Sustainability Initiative
Global Flood Initiative
"America's Water" Initiative
Current Editor-in-Chief of the journal
"Water Security"

www.columbia.edu/~ula2/

Shao Lin, MD, MPH, PhD
Professor, SUNY Albany SPH
Associate Dir, Global Health Research

Leads research on the effects of climate change on health outcomes associated with extreme weather, natural disasters and water borne illness

www.albany.edu/sph/faculty/shao-lin

Xiaobo Xue Romeiko, PhD
Assoc. Prof, SUNY Albany SPH

Leads research in assessing environmental sustainability and climate resiliency of water & waste infrastructure, and identifying solutions that minimize environmental health risks

www.albany.edu/sph/faculty/xiaobo-xue-romeiko

Moderated By

mdweidmann@gmail.com

Max Weidmann MD, PhD
Member, Int'l Society of Doctors
for the Environment;
Board Member, Physicians for Social Responsibility-NY;
Clinical Pathologist/Microbiologist
MPH Candidate, SUNY Albany; Interests: Impacts of climate change on vector-borne, waterborne illness, drought and health

Ellen Ferranti MD
Member, Int'l Society of Doctors
for the Environment;
Board Member, Physicians for Social Responsibility-NY;
IM Physician/Activist/UN Advocate Interests: Health effects of climate change/women's health/preventive medicine

dreferranti@gmail.com